The Construction Manager's Role in Project Schedule Management

For the Owner's Representative who wants to do more than just forward a native format file and print the pdf.

The contractor's schedule is garbage. What's an Owner's Rep to do?

This seminar presents best practices for the Owner's Rep in project schedule management, administration, and schedule changes.

This is not a CPM primer course.

Come with your questions about schedule administration.

When you register with your email, the program handout will be emailed to you.

Join us to learn about:

- Enforcing your schedule specification
- Finding the real critical path
- Weather day allowances
- What to look for when you receive the schedule
- Who owns the float
- Resource loading considerations
- Updating Time impact analyses
- Concurrent delays
- Not drowning in data to see the project's big picture

Seminar Leader

Chip Ossman, President, Ossman Project Management Consulting, Inc.

With more than 40 years in the construction industry, Chip's early career included mainframe computer schedule processing. Working with Owners, Contractors, and Subcontractors, his construction industry experience incorporates the use of project schedules in managing project progress and in negotiating and resolving changes. His hands-on expertise brings case studies and his technical training will explain why and how come we do (or don't do) it that way. This is an updated program from his critically acclaimed 2014 CMAA seminar series.
